STARTING A NEW SCHOOL YEAR CAN'T REPLACE MEMORIES OF THAT...

SIZZLIN' SUMMER

The last burning rays of the summer sun reflected on the faces of reluctant students as thoughts and the calendar once again turned toward math, band, English, football practice, and yearbook deadlines. Another year loomed ahead leaving behind golden cherished summer memories, summer tans, trips to the coast, sleeping late, and for some, summer jobs.

Ahead-TABS tests, Exit exams, research papers, the excitement of new clothes, apprehension about new teachers, and the joy of seeing friends not seen since last year.

Schedules that did not put one in the class with a best friend, stiff new classroom rules, and a "tiff" with that "special" person, combined to dull the edge of eagerness of returning to school.

Time won, and so another school year began!

"SPIRIT WE'VE GOT IT, AIN'T NO DOUBT ABOUT IT, SPIRIT..." IS THE THEME FOR...

PEP RALLIES

We've got spirit, and the R.H.S. pep rallies brought it to the surface.

Organizations such as the band, spirit leaders, drill team, cheerleaders, and, on occasion, the J.V. and junior high cheerleaders, helped to generate a spirited fever in hopes that the football team would dominate the gridiron on Friday nights.

Skits, cheers, and sexy leg contests marked the three afternoon rallies were held to commemorate the first game, homecoming, and the last game. Even at the seven 8 a.m. rallies, spirit wasn't sleepy!

On Fridays did you feel like we were being invaded by creatures from another planet? If so, then you had the sparkle of "spirit days." Spirit days were held on every varsity game day to help promote school spirit. Students and teachers alike would dress according to the theme of the week. A few of the themes were, "Make Grosebeck Nerds", and "Spook the Hornets." Several senior football players received the Spirit Stick during the season. There were many pep rallies either before or after school that helped get everyone "fired up." The band, drill team, cheerleaders, and Spirit Leaders all worked together to encourage everyone to show pride in the school and attend the games.

IS PART OF...

HOME-COMING

"We're the best overall" was the theme for Homecoming week. The faculty and students wore overalls on Friday. The spirit leaders were busy with decorating the varsity football players' rooms. The three days of dedication and hard work toward building the bonfire paid off while everyone watched it burn. The pep rally sparkled with spirit and filled the gym with anticipation of winning the "big game."

Chris Tadlock won the sexy legs contest and Tim Holtcamp was chosen Drill Team Beau. The Rockets had a victory over the Whitney Wildcats of 21-6. During halftime Keri Price was crowned Homecoming Queen and the Homecoming dance brought a fun-filled week to an end with all of the memories.

GETTING TO YOUR LOCKER THROUGH CROWDED HALLS IS PART OF... LOCKER LIFE

Five minutes between each class seven times a day adds up to 35 minutes of chaos. The "Motley Crew" that pushes and shoves its way through RHS halls can make trips to the lockers tedious and exhausting.

Once people have finally reached their lockers and grasped a book, they get knocked three lockers over by an elbow from the Motley Crew. "Next year, I'm getting a top locker! I refuse to be thrown around like I have been this year!" exclaimed Chris Brazil.

Catchin' a little rest and relaxation seemed to be impossible. Sneaking some winks, grabbing a few "z's" in class or cruisin' the halls helped us get through the day. "The only reason why I come to school is to rest," said Alex Vorderkunz. Being with friends and catching up on all of the latest gossip helped to take our minds off of school work for a while.

K. Pursche and his date wait in line for pictures.

Sophomore prom ushers chosen by the senior class.

The magic of Oriental Mystique began on May 7 at 8 p.m. Couples arriving in limousines and horse drawn carriages brought excitement to prom.

While gliding through a shimmering doorway and looking upon the Chinese Dragon the theme was revealed to prom goers.

As couples arrived they began the prom ritual of taking photos for memory books. Between dances students consumed egg rolls, fortune cookies, and fruit punch.

The night ended as the theme song "Angel" by Aerosmith faded into the night.

Senior class sponsors chaperoning the prom were, Mrs. Arp, Mrs. Emley, Coach Smith, Mrs. Weathers, and Mrs. Pulattie.

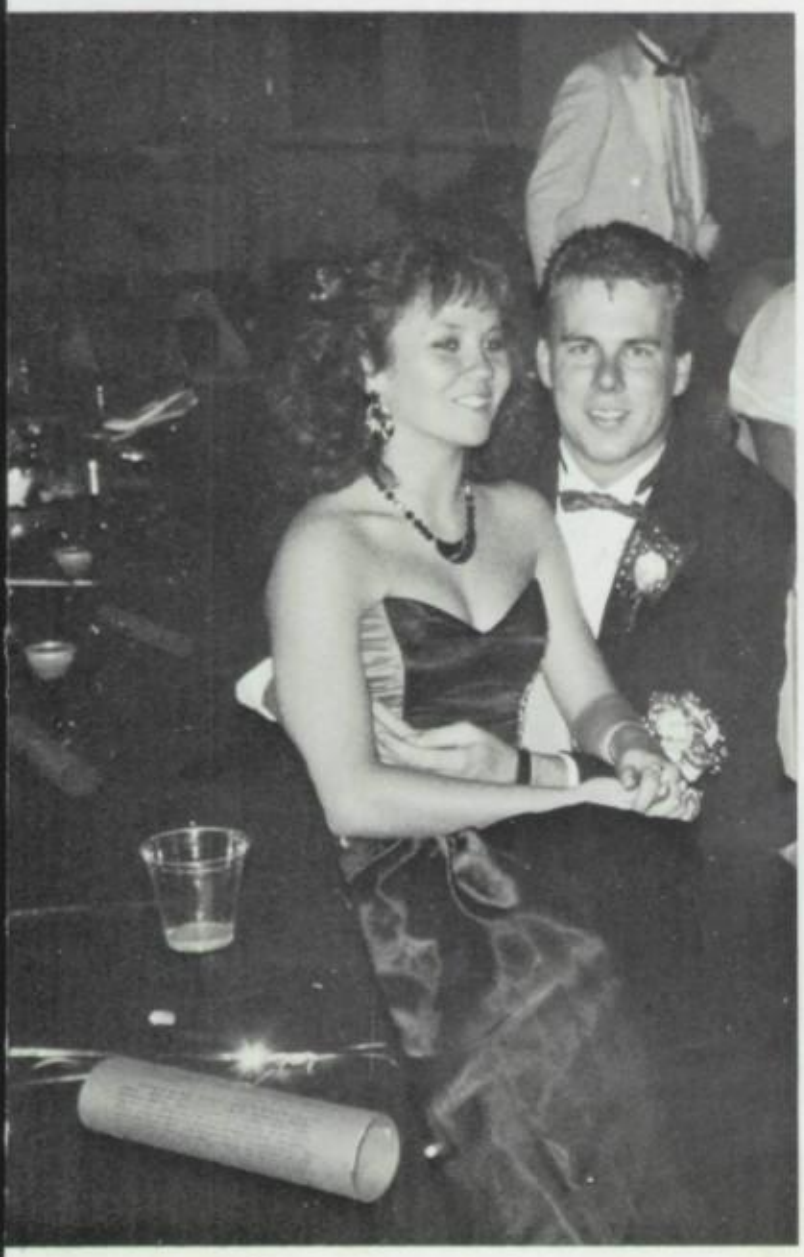
J. Trogdan and R. Krumnow dance to the last song.

Kathy Losak and Toby McCarver enter prom through the glistening doorway.

Amy Neuhaus hobbled around prom on her decorated crutches.

Chris Hudson and Kayla Sikes enjoy browsing through the tables of Chinese food after dancing.

Sherry Williams, Misti Wake, and Rachael Smart dance to some new tunes played by the D.J.



Kelly Smith and Lance Kattner enjoy some punch while they take a break from dancing.

J. Metzgar and M. Norman doff the shoes and coat to go dance.

Alicia Green and Kevin Vranich are distracted by something while dancing together to a rock song.

K. Kinlaw, M. Carson, are fired up to ride the "yellow dog."

R. Sullivan and K. Atkinson compete in the cook off.

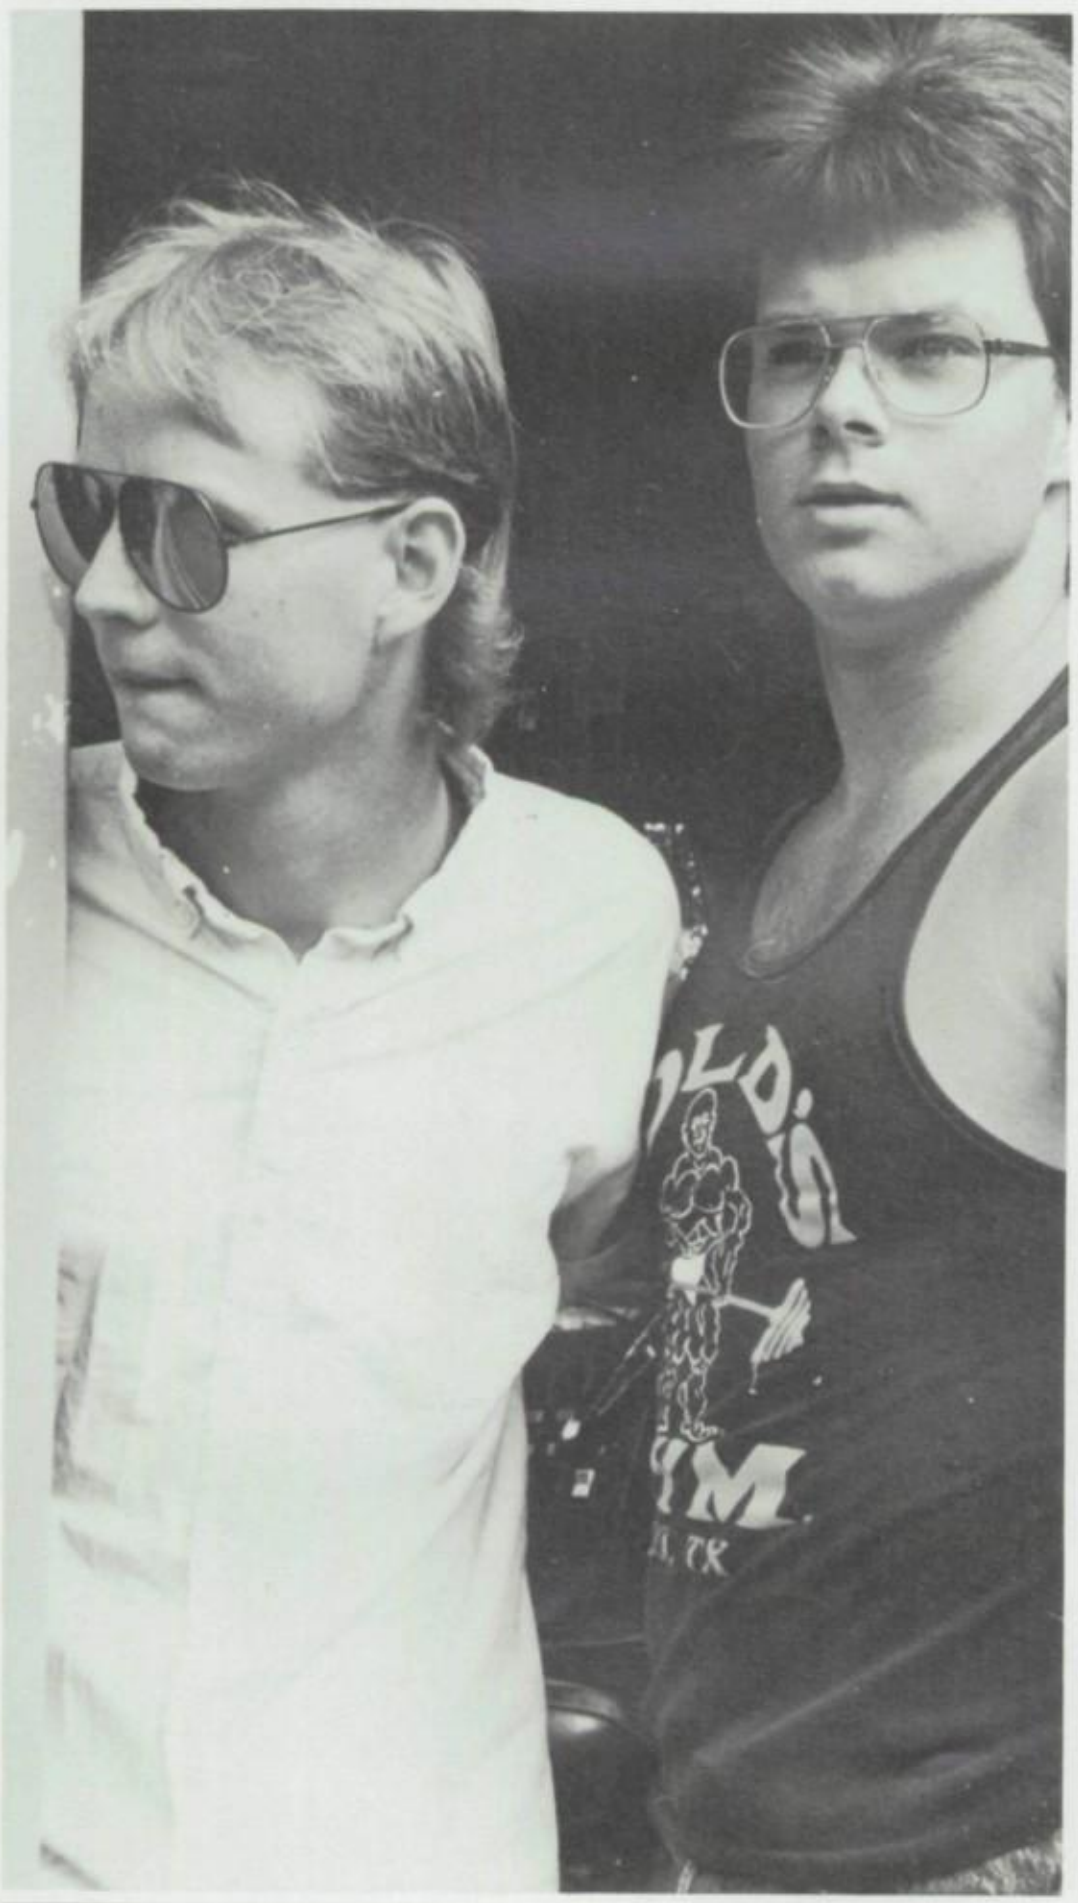
SENIOR TRIP



R. Bush and C. Hudson take a last look before boarding the bus for home."

On a rainy April morning, the Senior class left for the long haul to New Braunfels for the senior trip.

After 3 hours of chaos a few games and a lip smacking game of 'Truth or Dare' all 84 gripey seniors and 6 chilled out sponsors reached the Landa Resort.

Everyone chunked their junk in Mrs. P's room and hit the 20° water at the Schlitterbahn. After a short meeting, the seniors took off to the water while others played volleyball and horseshoes.

Later that night, Brummit started the Robinson cook off by making some of his famous Bar-B-Q sauce. Others joined in with their hamburgers and hotdogs and tantalizing sirloin steaks! After chowing down and regaining their energy some rowdy guys chunked Mr. Hawkins in the pool.

Those who didn't cook out went to town for dinner. Coach Smith was given the honor of driving the party van and taking the group to Pat's Place. After everyone returned there was a dance in the hot tub.

The next morning everyone packed up their gear and loaded the buses for a "KILLER" ride home through the "Wild Wild West!"

That's the Ticket . . .

Mr. Hawkins threatens to cut Chuck Hick's hair for the last time before graduation.

Elizabeth Sutton examines her graduation gown before commencement.

"We cannot let life's everyday struggles prevent us from pursing our dreams," said Brian Fowler, M.D., Lt. U.S. Navy, and a 1977 Robinson High School graduate in his address to the 139 R.H.S. graduating seniors Saturday, May 28 in the cafetorium. Fowler related how his dream had been to become a medical doctor. "Failure occurs when there is not enough courage to dream," he said. "Dreaming is important to everyone, it allows one to enter new worlds. Books and magazines allow glimpses into the world of dreams. 'Getting by' does not motivate us to reach our potential," he said.

To The Future

GRADUATION! Memory filled days and nights, dreams fulfilled and unfulfilled, "special" graduation dresses, the senior girls singing "The Greatest Love of All", large pieces of round bubble gum, graduation itself, the chemical free party at Lakewood Country Club until 6 a.m., all combined to make the 1988 Robinson High School graduation one to be forever remembered!

Baccalaureate speaker was the Rev. Sherman Robinson, Jr., pastor of St. Paul Baptist Church, Robinson, and father of graduating senior Zachary Adolphus Robinson.

Commencement speaker was Brian Fowler, M.D. Lt. U.S. Navy. In the band hall prior to graduation, the senior presented plaques of appreciation to senior sponsor chairman Dianne Weathers, and Harold "Snuffy" Smith.

Hugs and kisses were exchanged, collars securely pinned, and the long alphabetical line was formed, led by valedictorian Lisa Youngblood and salutatorian Kevin Ayers. "Pomp and Circumstance" was played by the band as the seniors marched in and were seated.

The invocation was given by "Snuffy" Smith, followed by addresses by the salutatorian and valedictorian, special music by the senior girls, the commencement address, and the presentation of diplomas by RISD Board President Michael Hooper.

Singing the school song brought tears to the eyes of many. English teacher Lou Forbis gave the benediction, then blue mortar boards flew into the air and rained down on the CLASS OF '88!

Robert Bush, graduating senior, shares a hug with Carline Mayben after graduation.

Zack Robinson and Coach Snuffy Smith have an emotional hug after Zack receives his diploma while Lou Forbis watches.

Our high school years are almost gone
Oh please don't let them end.
We've had so many joyful times
And made so many friends.

Remember all those special times
That made us laugh or cry?
Our first heartbreak and last prom date
Oh how they've all passed by.

The bonfires and the footbal games,
And all the carnival queens;
The homecomings and pep-rallies
Our mighty football team:

These memories are shared by us
The class of '88',
Lets make our senior year the best
Before we graduate.

BY: Daphne White, Keri Price, Kari Jones, and Shelly Wilson

For 58 hours 18-month-old Jessica McClure was in the hearts of everyone who had heard of her tragic fall. While innocently playing in her aunt's backyard on Wednesday, October 21, 1987, in Midland, Texas, she tumbled down into an eight-inch pipe. She came to rest 22 feet below the earth's surface.

The rescue crew started working shortly after their arrival. They dropped a microphone into the hole to see if Jessica was still alive. The frightened girl was crying "Mommy" and humming "Winnie-the-Pooh."

Drilling experts made a three-foot wide shaft running beside the pipe she was trapped in. After making a small tunnel leading to her, the rescuer placed a balloon under her to clog the hole so she would be unable to slip deeper. He then got Jessica, put her on the shaft, and inch by inch hoisted her to the surface.

Jessica suffered no internal injuries or major cuts. Doctors performed surgery on her right foot which was forced up against her head.

BUTLER

In August of 1987, Robinson' police chief, James Butler, found out he was being charged with the illegal possession and selling of an illegal weapon. Most of the citizens were shocked and filled with disbelief when they found out about the charges being brought against their police chief.

The charge of illegal possession was proven in court by Wayne Appelt, an agent with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, who testified that possession of a semi-automatic weapon and the conversion parts was the same as owning a fully automatic weapon under federal law. The weapon which brought on all this trouble was a semi-automatic Uzi bought by Butler six years ago intended to be used by him as a police weapon. He said he bought the conversion parts over a period of three years and intended to convert the gun to a legal submachine gun to ensure that he would never be overpowered during potential criminal outbreaks. Butler said when he got the parts, he checked with ATF officials to see how to register the machine gun, but later decided to trade the gun away. The conversion parts were never applied to the weapon and did not make the weapon any more dangerous from Butler's ownership of them.

Butler decided to trade the gun away for three reasons. His first reason was his fear of adverse public opinion about owning a machine gun. His second reason was because of liability and training concerns. His third reason was that he had an offer for the gun from James Michael Cooper and Butler said, "The negative outweighed the usefulness of a machine gun, and I decided to sell it."

Cooper, who is now serving a federal sentence on weapons charges and receiving stolen property in an unrelated case, testified that he met Butler at his military surplus store. Butler said Cooper approached him in April 1986, about swapping Butler's Uzi and conversion parts for an Uzi pistol Cooper had at his store. Butler, who was already aware of Cooper's prison record, suspected Cooper in the burning of a nearby store, whose owner owed Cooper money. Butler thought that if he traded guns with Cooper, Cooper would convert it into an illegal machine gun and brag about it to Butler, which would give Butler leverage over Cooper and the ability to find out more about the arson.

Cooper later sold the unregistered gun and conversion parts to an undercover ATF agent, who traced it back to Butler.

1988 Calender

Rackin' the Nation

During 1987-88, the television evangelist quickly became an endangered species. Plagued by scandal and ridicule, those few remaining examples of electronic gospel slowly faded into the test-pattern sunset.

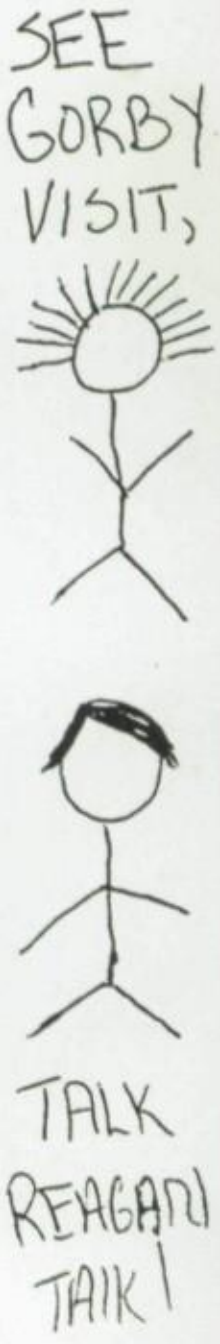
It took the antics of the "big four"-Oral Roberts, Jim and Tammy Baker, Jimmy Swaggart, and Pat Robertson-to cause the downfall of one of the biggest industries in North America: televised religion.

The finger points to Oral Roberts, who seemed to start the downfall with his plea for eight million dollars to save his life-and his college. Then P.T.L.'s Jim and Tammy Baker took over with her makeup and his air-conditioned dog house. But that wasn't the end. Pat Robertson entered the presidential race and tried to convince America that everyone was out to get him.

From December 18th to December 20th, the eyes of the nation were on Washington, D.C. The first Russian Premeir to visit the United States in over 20 years had arrived in America for a 3-day summit meeting. Mikael Gorbachev, accompanied by his wife Raisa Gorbachev, came to the states to discuss the banning of intermediate-range nuclear weapons.

Nancy Reagan and Raisa Gorbachev both denied there were problems between the two first ladies, which were apparent at press conferences and public appearances.

Despite the difficulties, Gorbachev left a lasting impression on the American public. En route to the last day of meetings, the Soviet Premeir ordered his motorcade to pull over. He exited his car and proceeded to shake hands and chat with onlookers.



MTV

Most art forms are not usually considered as having a date of birth. But on August 1, 1981 MTV was born, offering a round-the-clock showing of music videos. Music videos are short films set to rock songs and produced by record companies to promote their performers. These short clips soon became more-they became the first chance to see music instead of just hearing it.

When MTV arose as a small station it was available in almost 2.5 million homes. Now as a major station it is available in 35.8 million homes.

The veejays on MTV are young men and women who are interested in music and television. These veejays include 27 year old Julie Brown, 17 year old Dweezil Zappa, Carolyn Helmon, China Kantner, Adam Curry, and Allan Hunter. MTV has now returned to its original emphasis on hard rock and heavy metal bands after trying out the mellower sounds of Billy Joesl, Lionel Richie and others. MTV's format has been updated with more live programming, sitcoms, such as reruns of the Monkees and the British show, the Young Ones, nonmusic series, like a series of reports on rock groupies, and even a game show called Remote Control.

MARCHING TO SUCCESS

When a band student receives a self-addressed envelope with a letter full of typos, he knows it's time for long hot practices and blisters on his heels ... it's time for SUMMER BAND.

Beginning summer band in mid-August all the way through the State Marching finals in early November the band learns, rehearses, and perfects the show. But in addition to the contest show, the band rehearsed each Thursday and Friday morning at 7:30 with the Drill Team for the half-time show for the football games.

This year the band elected a mascot. Rocket, a beagle/basset hound dog, came to almost every practice to win this honor. Rocket even came to hear the band during the third quarter of the Connally football game. Police Chief James Butler had to apprehend Rocket when he tried to coax the game officials into petting him.

Screams of joy and relief are yelled upon the announcement that the band will be going to the State Contest!

SAN DIEGO

BAND HAS HOLIDAY BEACH PARTY

Preparations for the Holiday Bowl Beach Party began last spring. Fund raisers were held to help the band reach a goal of $58,000 to go to San Diego for the Holiday Bowl football game the week after Christmas. The Banner Committee made a six yard banner of silver lamé to carry in the parade with the slogan "RHS came to Sea World for a Porpoise." When school ended for the holidays, the band was ready for departure at 12:30 a.m. on December 27.

Due to ice, all roads west of Abilene were closed and the band was forced to delay departure until December 28th. But at 12:30 p.m. on the 28th the band finally began the 27 hour bus ride to San Diego.

Upon arrival in California, the band stayed at the Holiday Inn Embarcadero on the San Diego Bay, went to Sea World, Seaport Village, rehearsals for halftime, the Bowl Parade, and the San Diego Zoo, all in 3 days and 3 nights.

Mr. Clines is surprised by the hospitality of the band directors from Hawaii who gave each band a gift in the Holiday Bowl Festival. There were bands from California, Montana, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, and Canada.

Rutledge and Shinder play checkers while Delaney watches on the 27 hour bus ride to San Diego. To sleep, eat, listen to music, read, or just talk were popular pastimes.

Arising early and coming to school with hair in rollers are just part of being a Rockette. New uniforms for the team helped allay the pain of early practice. A trio went to Connally competition December 12.

The Drill Team took their skirt routine to Dallas Saturday, January 30. They stayed at Hyatt Regency for two nights. The last night all the Drill Teams attended a "Whoop-It-Up" party in the Hyatt ballroom. The following weekend, they attended a convention in Dallas where they were taught how to tap dance. They put the performance in their Spring show, "The Rockette Review." It included team performances, as well as class performances and company performances.

YEARBOOK

THE TICKET TO MEMORIES

Thirteen dedicated students drew layouts, took pictures, sold ads, and wrote copy to make this yearbook. Second year editor Sherry Williams, said "There is always lots of pressure as a deadline approaches. You just have to do your best and let other things go."

Students were instructed in copy writing, layouts, and cropping before doing real layouts. First year member Colby Fillip said, "Yearbook is hard, but I can handle it."

It wasn't all work- fun time included pizza parties, a Christmas party at Mrs. P's, and a Spring Banquet.

"Teaching yearbook is challenging," said Mrs. Pulattie.

NEWSPAPER

COMPUTER BOOSTS PRODUCTION

The Macintosh computer and printer whirled and clicked as Jeff Brown, Sherry Williams, or Michelle Perry fed headlines into it, while the typewriters clacked away on stories.

The journalism classroom was probably the most hectic place on the high school campus during the eighth period. The Vapor Trails staff, consisting of four students, could be found in a corner of the classroom piecing together the monthly newspaper. The rest of the room was occupied by cub reporters constantly being drilled on how to write features, editorials, news and sports.

"I bet I typed more than I ever have this past week," said Kathy Holloway after the December paper went to press, "but it would be easier if Michelle could spell," she added.

Jeff Brown is trying to get a good idea for an editorial in eighth period newspaper class.

CHEERLEADERS

SPIRIT, THEY'VE GOT IT!

"Ready hit it!" This is what the Varsity and J.V. cheerleaders were doing at camp. The Varsity squad received first runner up in the Award of Excellence and Lorna Collier was an All American Cheerleader. "I was shocked when they said I was an All-American Cheerleader. It never crossed my mind that it could happen to me," remarked Lorna.

Head cheerleader for Varsity was Theresa Castilleja, she said, "I'm going to miss cheerleading and I never would of made it without Mrs. Fleming."

The J.V. squad won the Award of Excellence which qualified them to compete in the National Competition. Shannon Curlee was All-American Cheerleader. "I was glad the pressure was over. It was worth all the hard work," Shannon said.

Kourtni Kinlaw, Head Cheerleader for J.V. said, "It brings you closer to everyone. We could always depend on Mrs. Alvarado.

THE FACES BEHIND THE SIGNS

Spirit Leaders- who are they? They are six girls that run around with paint on them from head to toe! They paint the break-down signs, work on pin-ons for various sports, decorate for the different banquets, decorate locker rooms for different sports and generally keep spirit alive at RHS. Who? SPIRIT LEADERS! Shellie Schnizer, Michelle Norman, Leesa Hawkins, Misti Wake, Kim Frambach, and Cyndi Massey. Jean Fleming, sponsor.

ART

A DIFFERENT STROKE

The 1987-88 year was Suzanna Garcia's first year of teaching art at Robinson. She brought new and creative ideas as well as different forms of creative art with her. Some examples include modeling clay, sculpting, painting, caligraphy and perspective drawing. The art students faced new challenges this year. Many of the students were involved in creating the carnival decorations, while others were busy designing show cases and making exhibits for the art show.

"There are several outstanding artists taking the course and everyone is always willing to help," commented Garcia.

DRAMA

BEHIND THE SCENES OF "FREEWAY"

Jacquee Malone received a best actress award for her performance in "Free Way", a play performed by the drama club. The play is about an elderly black woman which ends up in a rest home after her best friend, an elderly white woman (played by Elizabeth Sutton) dies after receiving word from the State Department that a highway is being built through their property.

Elizabeth Sutton received an all-star cast award, and Kathy Moon received an honorable mention. The other cast members were, Larry Parigan, Stephanie Walts, Denise Williams, Eric Harris, and Adela Knight. The play, directed by Mrs. Thomas, received 3rd place at U.I.L. district competition.

For the full effect, Jacquee Malone colors black eyeliner on her teeth before the performance.

Rachael Smart uses alcohol to remove the makeup from Kathy Moon's face after the district play performance.

PEER SUPPORT SYSTEM FOR TEENS

Who do people turn to when they have problems? The students in PSST (Peer Support System for Teens) had an answer! Selected students trained for 14 hours in dealing with drugs, alcohol, suicide, sexuality, and abuse. The group was the first of its kind in McLennan County and was a model for a similar program at Baylor. Sponsors for the program were Betty Penny, Dianne Weathers, and Karen Curlee.

The Robinson Home Economics Department contacted various organizations such as Planned Parenthood, Brazos Psychiatric Center, and the Family Abuse Center to provide training seminars for the participants. "All the groups were very cooperative," said Mrs. Weathers.

The students didn't spend all of their time training. The group was honored at a banquet on Feb. 15, in which the participants were presented a certificate of achievement. The teens also had T-shirts designed by Larry Parrigin.

"I'm glad we started PSST. Maybe now they'll get it started at other schools too." said Junior, Cyndi Massey.

QUILL and SCROLL

Editors K. Losak, M. Fillip, S. Williams stand together with J. Pulattie at the banquet. (photo: T. McCarver)

Quill and Scroll is an international honorary society organized for students having achievements in journalism and publications.

Students who were inducted had to have made a significant contribution to a school publication and have been recommended by three teachers. Characteristics such as enthusiasm, leadership, dependability, citizenship, cooperation, and a positive attitude are other qualifications which are a factor.

The new candidates introduced into Quill and Scroll were: Larry Parrigin for his outstanding work done on the yearbook cover, Shellie Schnizer for her help and enthusiasm throughout the year, Brad Campbell for his outstanding photography work, and Cyndi Massey for her creative layout designs.

THE "PURSUIT" OF KNOWLEGE

The Challenge team members responded with answers to questions such as, "Who were the first three presidents after George Washington?" during competition on local T.V. station KWTX.

The team competed against China Spring High School and Reicher High School in two meets, with China Spring match airing March 12, and the Reicher match airing April 23.

Team members were Mark Borchgardt, David Hyman, Tommy Rutledge, Bronwyn Reid, Stacy Lynch, and Mrs. Emley was the coach.

STUDY- A five letter word that most students are allergic to. "Study? Oh yeah, I study-just the three of us-Me, my cheetos and my MTV," commented Chris Braziel. Webster defines studying as "the application of knowledge." If that's the case then there are a lot of minds thirsting for knowledge. As Julie Stillwagon said, "Studying is something that I have heard of but will wait to practice in college."

Some of the hot spots used to study at were the benches in the foyer, the picnic table, or just plopping down right in the hall and studying notes for the next class. "It's always a must to study in the five minutes at the end of one class before taking a test in the next," said Tammy Taylor.

Cameron Losak stated, "I don't take books home, I pay attention in class."

NOTES

HEALTH

Every student that goes through high school takes at least one semester of Health with teachers Mrs. Cox and Ms. Davis. Things went slow the first semester with the skin, physical fitness, nutrition, mental health, and ending with the effects of drugs and alcohol on the body. The second semester, students began studying sex education and systems of the body. Also a lifesaving course was taught which used the popular "Choking Charlie" and "Resusa Annie," used to perform the Heimlich Maneuver on a choking victim and CPR on a victim that has stopped breathing.

STUDY HABITS

"Winging it" was always popular too, you know- those famous essay questions that you never saw before so you would take a key word from the question and start writing. And the more you wrote the more you got off the subject. Yep, all because you didn't study.

Study parties seemed to be very necessary to the seniors about the time 'Macbeth' hit the scene. Everyone would pile into Shellie Schnizers' house then Kevin Ayers got to be the teacher while the rest of the gang kicked back and munched.

HISTORY

"And the winner of the map contest is . . . !" said Denny Warren world geography teacher. Winning the map contest was a privilege, considering students are awarded with candy for their outstanding job.

Or as government teacher Snuffy Smith or Ann Manley would repeat, "Let's get out our notes and continue on Article I of our Constitution." These were commonly heard quotes from history teachers during the fifty five minutes of class.

Senior government student Shellie Schnizer said, "I like government class on Fridays because we have current events and an opportunity to learn more about the world from each others current event shared.'' Kathy Losak, senior government student also said, ''Since I've been in government this year, I've learned to read the paper from day to day as well as watch the news at night in order to study for a current events test on Monday.''

Students were kept occupied by taking notes from the overhead projector in David Griffin's world history class.

Many Robinson High freshmen were enrolled in U.S. History, which consists of note taking, current events, pop quizes, bookwork, and is taught by Rhonda Trest, Marvis Kenny, and David Griffin.

Although history is a part of the past, here at Robinson, history is a part of many students' present life.

The thought of facing four years of high school English doesn't please most students. Puzzles, group work, and Jeopardy are ways to make learning more fun. Mrs. Pulattie's English II class had to teach different parts of speech for a day. Mrs. Forbis' English III dressed up in costume and had an authentic Thanksgiving dinner after reading ''The Crucible.'' The English IV classes watched ''Camelot'' after finishing the Medieval Period and the English II class watched ''Huckleberry Finn'' after reading the novels.

While English classes must be taken by all students at RHS, teachers try to make it interesting.

TEEN TALK

Who do you think you are?

If you don't "get a grip" and "be for real" about teen talk, you're a real dueeb.

Maaan, it's like ease up! I wouldn't lie to you about the situation. Teens use a lot of cliches as well, it's sort of, like a way of life.

Teen talk is a fad. Fads, ya know, come and go. When John Roberts, band director, was asked about his cliches from high school he said, "Groovy-how fine!" Really, I must be joking, I know it's not cool, but you'll live! Oh, please-stop ragging on him-he can't help it if his cliches are bogus!

Spanish ... German ... or Latin? Which one? No matter what language course one is enrolled in, its going to get a little confusing at some time or another.

"I'm having enough trouble in English. Why do I need a foreign language?" asked Merritte Threadgill. According to Mrs. Kenney, Latin teacher, "a foreign language helps students appreciate their own language more."

Even though everyone agreed that a foreign language was difficult, all language students appreciated the added benefits of the clubs. The clubs took trips and had activities such as the Latin "Night-out" in May and the Spanish pinata party in the fall.

The J.V. went 7-3 for the season and 4-3 for district play. "The offense held its own but the key factor behind the J.V. winning season was their outstanding defense," stated linebacker Chris Braziel. Practicing to improve

The Freshman football team struggled through a tough season. The Rockets 1-7 felt like they had a better season than the record books showed. "I think Rockette Volleyball has improved 100; we didn't get as far as we had planned this year, but we did do a lot of good things, there are on only four seniors leaving so there is not a doubt in my mind that they can go as far as possible next year," Allison McMinn, senior and three year member said.

The Rockettes started practicing their season in August by beating Cameron.

Kisten Kinlaw made first team all-district tournament and Cathy Pope made second team. The varsity team's district standings were 7-5. They placed third in district.

Gettin' it to the Playoffs

During the spring, the Robinson Varsity baseball team was ranked in the top 10 of the Texas High School Coaches' Poll. "Our success is contributed to excellent pitching, powerful hitting and most of all, by our teams unity." said Chris Tadlock, third baseman and graduating senior. The Varsity team was coached this year by Kris Strain.

Combined with four juniors, six sophomores, and eight freshmen, the JV team was coached by Dale Cox. "We've gotten a whole lot better; our team has improved since the first game against West," said Mike Armour, junior. The varsity lost to La Vega in the state semi-finals.

Together with spirit

"We'll just have to be better next year."

That quote from junior Clint Dolezel summed up the Boy's Varsity basketball season. However, through the bad luck and lost games, one thing remained constant-the team's spirit.

The team came away with a 21-10 victory — the best the team has done in years, according to Coach Snuffy Smith.

Through all the hardships of the season, the team stayed together under the leadership of Coach Smith. Smith reflected that while the season ended before the team wanted it to, it was certainly the best year he had coaching at R.H.S.

Closeness = Success

"I feel that if it would not have been for having each other to count on, we could not have worked closely and successfully as a team," said J.V. player Tricia Koustron.

Five juniors provided strong leadership, and all five juniors started at one time or another, which showed that their experience was an advantage. Competitive spirit was brought out early because of competition within the group. "The girls were a close-knit group and there was a variety of personalities which made it fun to coach, as well as not being afraid to work hard, and listening to me with intensity, which showed their eagerness to learn," said Coach Deb Davis.

Functioning as a team

The members of the J.V. basketball team of juniors and sophomores learned how to be a team and function as a team. This group made the most of the talent they had.

"The only thing I can say about this year's team is that we played with spirit, pride, and we were able to utilize our God given potentials and attitudes with the help of Coach Wright, who devised his system around our individual talents and so he was able to bring out the best this team could offer," remarked John Beeman.

"This was a group of young men who refused to get beat. They worked very hard and with that hard work and dedication to their teammates came out with an outstanding record of 19-6 and 10-4 in district, good enough for 3rd place. I'm very proud and very honored to have had the opportunity to work with them." said Coach Keith Wright on this year's J.V. team.

"under construction"

"This was a year for reconstructing both the cross country and track teams," said Coach Ray Fannin.

Over all the cross country team finished 3rd in district.

The fifth place district placing for the track team didn't show their full ability.

Although the team did not place high in the district standing, three athletes qualified for regionals. John Tate, Clint Dolezel, and Corey Tucker. Tucker, with a 22ft. 7in. long jump placed 1st in regionals and was the only Rocket to advance to the state meet.

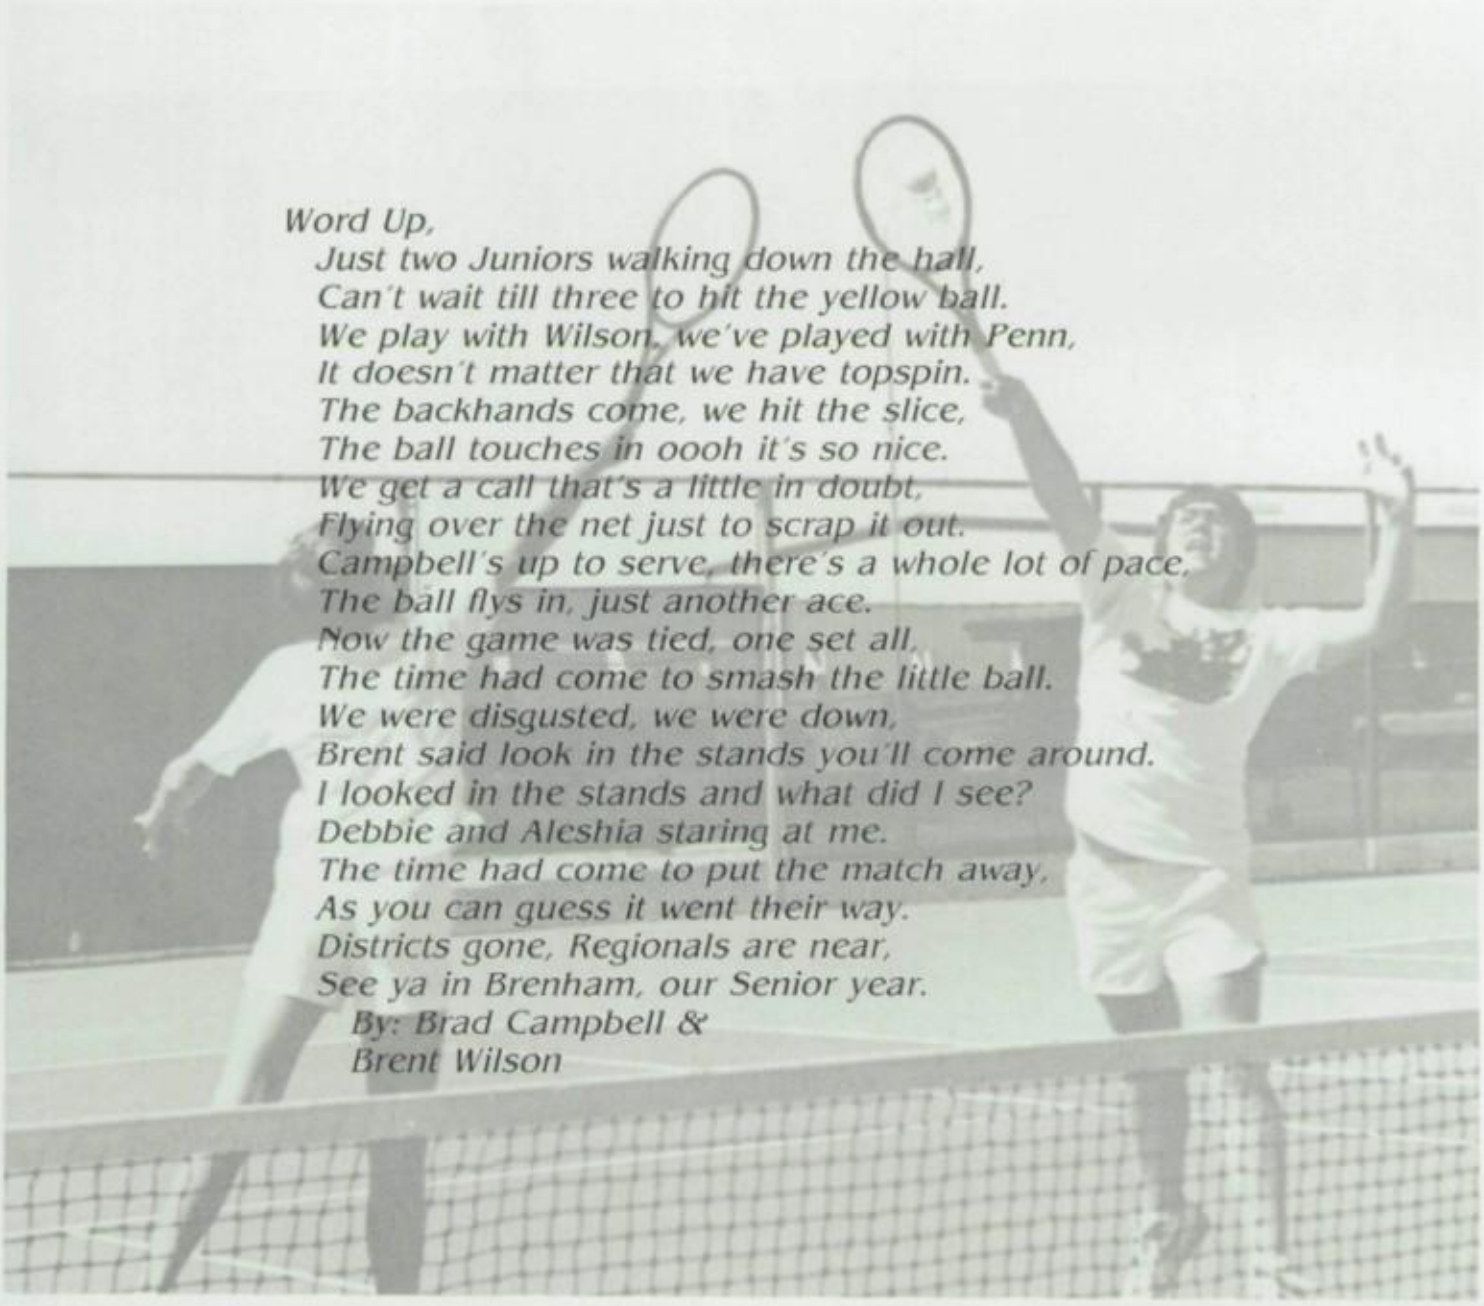
Tennis

Racqueting to Regionals



Word Up,
Just two Juniors walking down the hall,
Can't wait till three to hit the yellow ball.
We play with Wilson, we've played with Penn,
It doesn't matter that we have topspin.
The backhands come, we hit the slice,
The ball touches in oooh it's so nice.
We get a call that's a little in doubt,
Flying over the net just to scrap it out.
Campbell's up to serve, there's a whole lot of pace,
The ball flys in, just another ace.
Now the game was tied, one set all,
The time had come to smash the little ball.
We were disgusted, we were down,
Brent said look in the stands you'll come around.
I looked in the stands and what did I see?
Debbie and Aleshia staring at me.
The time had come to put the match away,
As you can guess it went their way.
Districts gone, Regionals are near,
See ya in Brenham, our Senior year.
By: Brad Campbell &
Brent Wilson

Beaming rays of sun and waves of anticipation set the scene for this year's district tennis meet in Marlin, April 7 and 8. As in the past Robinson dominated and won district Brad Campbell and Brent Wilson won district third place in doubles, along with Darren Sullivan who won third in singles. Chris Delany won first in consolation finals. The tennis team also participated in team tennis in Longview. They also went to World Class Tennis (WCT) in Dallas to watch professional tennis players.

Regional qualifiers are: Cathy Brown, Kari Jones, Julie Stillwagon, Kristi Denman, Michelle Haddox, and Kristi Waldrop.

The 1987-88 tennis team: Coach Dixie Haddox, Chris Delaney, Darren Sullivan, Brent Wilson, Brad Campbell, Jason Mangawang, Jason Duggan, Michelle Haddox, Julie Stillwagon, Cathy Brown, Kristi Denman, Christy Waldrop, Kari Jones.

Regional qualifiers are Shellie Schnizer, Melinda Hieber, Kim Frambach, and Misti Wake. Coach Dulany accompanied the team in the absence of Coach Smith.

"Hieb, this wasn't what I had in mind when I said we needed some sandy beaches and calm waters!" complains Shellie Schnizer.

Regional Golf qualifiers for RHS were Shellie Schnizer, Misti Wake, Melinda Hieber, and Kim Frambach, who composed the girls golf team. The boys' golf team was composed of Lance Kattner, Donnie Hyde, Troy Holt, Craig Stone, Jason Neuman, and Brett Weathers. Both teams were coached by Snuffy Smith. District competition consisted of three tournaments at Marlin, Gatesville, and Moody(McGregor). Before district the teams went to two non-district tournaments where the boys brought home the third place trophy at China Springs.

AUTO MECHANICS

CARS, CARS, AND MORE CARS

Auto Mechanics I and II, taught by Carl Sims, went to VICA Skills competition February 18 and 19. The students rebuilt a part of a car to take to competition. If they received higher than 90 points, they got a state qualified ribbon, which enables them to take their project to state. Some also received honorable mention ribbons.

During the year, the Auto Mechanics clases worked on cars, that were brought into the shop needing repairs.

FUTURE FARMERS

A "GROWING" CONCERN

During this past year, FFA participated in many activities, such as attending the State Convention and selling fruits for one of their fund-raisers. On October 7th, the members entered their own projects at the Heart of Texas Fair, where Charlotte Waldrop won the Woodworking catagory with an oak hope chest she made in class and Duwayne Goodwin won the Electrical catagory with an extension cord stand made in Ag. Mechanics class. Robinson placed 2nd overall in the Ag. Mechanics Project Show. On the 3rd Tuesday of every month, the officers held meetings at 7:00 p.m. in the Ag. Building, where they discussed fund-raising ideas and planned activities for their 88 members.

A very active group on the Robinson campus was Future Homemakers of America. This organization was involved in not only class projects such as sewing, cooking and changing baby diapers but also visiting the Robinson Nursing Home and Mexia State School.

The group sponsored William, who is in the Mexia State School and has been their special friend for the past four years. They sold wrapping paper in the fall as a fund raiser and used the money toward purchasing new equipment.

Another branch of FHA is Home and Family Living. The first semester the students learned how to manage their own money and develop strong relationships with others. Once that was established the students planned their own mock wedding and walked through a ceremony at a local church.

In the second semester students learned about the development of children from the moment of conception until they started kindergarten. After touring Hillcrest Hospital and actually seeing a baby being delivered on a video provided by the hospital, the students then learned the pre and post natal care of both child and mother. Teachers for this class were Dianne Weathers, Betty Penney and Karen Curlee.

VOE/OEA

SKILLS IN THE OFFICE

"Most students choose the work program to earn money," says VOE sponsor JoAnn Patton.

Some students at RHS work part of their school day at jobs where they are placed according to their skills and experience.

Most students work from one to five p.m. on weekdays but sometimes a student will work at a place open on Saturday or evenings.

"When a job becomes available I ask the students to determine which ones would be qualified for the position," said Patton. She added that some students already have a job and she decides if it is an appropriate one for her program.

She also said that most of the students also want to increase their skills and experience so they will be better off upon graduation.

M&DE/DECA

THE BUSINESS WORLD

Problem- How does a student go to school and still have time for a job? The solution- M&DE and DECA to the rescue! Students come to school for the first half of the day and work in the afternoons, or vice versa.

Reasons for working varied. Some students liked to have money for weekends and recreation, while others simply wanted to pay their own bills. Working also helped students to gain experience in the working world.

Although most of the students in the class already had jobs when they enrolled, some students were hired after an interview with a business that requested the school for people to fill a part-time position.

With most jobs today coming with the phrase "experience necessary," the students in M&DE and DECA are a step ahead in the search for a job.

HECE/HERO

JOBS FOR THE FUN OF IT

Home Economics Cooperative Education (HECE) is a work program that gives students the opportunity to earn money and valuable experience while still in school. Home Economics Related Occupations (HERO) is the club to which all the students are required to belong to.

Activities this year have included making Thanksgiving baskets for needy families and setting up Career Day on February 4th. Participating in FHA week and the Vocational Banquet were group activities with all the vocational students involved. Mrs. Betty Penney is the sponsor for HECE. She started the program in the 1970-71 school year.

INDUSTRIAL TRADES

WORKING FOR A FUTURE

Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) is a half day program that teaches students how to work in the job field of their choices. The program includes the use of lab facilities and on the job training. The jobs provide the students skill and industrial industrial trades. Students must be at least sixteen years old and a junior in school. They are also required to work at least three hous a day and a total of fifteen hours a week. "Most of my guys work and don't participate in extra-curricular activities" said Mr. Gibbs, Sponsor of ICT.

BUILDING FOR EXPIRENCE

Banging one's thumb and sitting in wet paint is expected by the students who are in CVAE or Building Trades.

During the year, Mr. Daughtery's CVAE classes and Building Trades were a big help around campus. They built a darkroom, poured sidewalks, and did other small jobs around campus.

Building Trades and CVAE attended the Vica contest during the last week of February. It was sponsored by T.S.T.I. The following week, they attended a VOCT contest in Waxahachie. The first place winners of these two contests went to State in Fort Worth at the end of the year.

Assistant Principal Gary Hawkins closes the door to his office, ending his 16th year on the high school campus to travel down the street to his new office at Robinson Elementary where he will serve the district as principal.

IN CLOSING THE '88 GALAXY, WE GIVE YOU A LIFETIME TICKET TO YOUR RHS...

MEMORIES

BEGINNING WITH the first day of school when the freshman timidly entered high school and progressing throughout the year until graduation when the seniors tossed their mortar boards in the air, the Galaxy staff strived to cover all aspects of life at Robinson High School in 1987-88. Work began in June at summer camp at the University of Texas at Austin when Mr. and Mrs. P took photographers Brad Campbell and Terry Snow, editors Sherry Williams, Melissa Fillip and Kathy Losak, and newspaper editor Michelle Perry to stay for a week in Jester Dorm and attend sessions of study in their field.

Closing the '88 Galaxy ends a year of hard work, tears of frustration, pizza parties, deadlines that are not fun, fights for the "big chair", bent croppers and pica triangles, all to produce this yearbook-a lifetime ticket to your memories of life at Robinson High School for 1987-88.

This yearbook was published by Josten's Publishing Company, Topeka, Kansas. The cover was custom designed by Larry Parrigin. All photos were taken, printed and developed by Robinson students, excepting the printing and developing of color film and photos.
Paper was 80 pound white. All art work is original are work of Robinson High School students.

Editor Williams cleans out her staff drawer after four years of publications.
